
SUPPLEMENTARY SUBJECT PROGRAMME IN EUROPEAN STUDIES

The Supplementary Subject in European Studies is a one-year programme that aims at giving students a broad knowledge of cultural, political and contemporary historical dimensions of European affairs.

The programme is taught in English and attracts both Danish BA students, and international guest and exchange students from all over the world.

Guest/exchange students may select individual courses or attend the whole programme. There is thus an interdisciplinary and international dimension to this programme

Upon completion of this programme, students have the option of entering the European Studies MA programme (B-line) which offers further possibilities for undertaking interdisciplinary research, understand project-based work, experience an placement or an exchange abroad.

Programme structure

1. semester*

Ideas of Europe in European History
Analysing the European Union

2. semester

Analysing Culture in Europe
Contemporary Issues in European Politics

* Students from within the Faculty will follow only one of these courses of their own choice, as they will be writing their BA-project in their core field in the fall semester. Exchange students etc. follow both courses.

Contact

The Study Guidance Centre
Department of Culture and Society
History and Area Studies
Ndr. Ringgade building 1410 room 145
Phone 8942 2022
studievejleder.iho@au.dk
www.iho.au.dk

New address from December 8th, 2012:

Jens Chr. Skous Vej 5
DK-8000 Aarhus C

Department of History and Area Studies
Aarhus University
Bartholins Allé 16
DK-8000 Aarhus C
Denmark

Tel.: +45 89421111
www.iho.au.dk

EUROPEAN STUDIES

DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY AND AREA STUDIES
Faculty of Humanities
Aarhus University

MA IN EUROPEAN STUDIES

The MA in European Studies is a two year programme that aims at giving students a broad knowledge of cultural, sociological, political and contemporary historical dimensions of European affairs. The programme is uniquely interdisciplinary, combining perspectives from both the humanities and the social sciences. At the same time, it focuses on interdisciplinary research training applied in the context of a project based teaching environment where particular attention is paid to intercultural cooperation and teamwork.

The programme is taught in English and recruits students from Denmark as well as internationally. Parts of the programme are also open to international guest and exchange students at the MA level. It typically means that around half the students enrolled come from abroad. This international and intercultural environment is an asset, and is into the set-up of the teaching.

The MA programme includes three semesters of full time course and project work, with and a final thesis written under supervision in the fourth semester.

Admission requirements

Application deadline is March 1 – see www.europeanstudies.au.dk for details about admission requirements and procedures.

PROGRAMME STRUCTURE

Line A

1. semester
Theories of Culture and Society Analysing European Culture and Society Analysing European Political Institutions
2. semester
Project: Interdisciplinary perspectives on European Affairs <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Themes 1 & 2 • Project Design and Research Methods
3. semester
History of the Idea of Europe Current Affairs Profile subject
4. semester
Thesis

Line B

1. semester
Theories of Culture and Society Analysing European Culture and Society Current Affairs
2. semester
Project: Interdisciplinary perspectives on European Affairs <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Themes 1 & 2 • Project Design and Research Methods
3. semester
Profile subject, International elective or Field-work/placement
4. semester
Thesis